INTRO

Hello again! Welcome to The State of Synth. Episode 3 of the 5th season! I'm Groot, and I'm Fawkes. Tonight we've got an update on Vosto, our guest Street Cleaner, and some cool tunes to play!

Top Story (Dennis)

Mysterious disc found in the streets of Bucharest Romania leaves scientists baffled. You remember that disc Jules. It's the one Vosto found a few weeks ago before he disappeared. We'll it turns out that it's still there, and it's as strange as ever. Let's turn to our roving reporter Kitty Caboodle with more on the story.

This Just In:

The Midnight has completed their listening for their second remix competition, and the winner was none other than Droid Bishop's remix of Deep Blue. Congrats to DA BISH! In other news Tyler Lyle just challenged Queen Elisabeth to a bakeoff with the winner getting the opportunity to kick Piers Morgan in the nutsack?! HAAHAHAHAHHAHAHA

End

That's our show! Thanks for listening and many thanks to our guest Feet Creeper!!

We are playing you out with one last track. Max Cruise is a producer and saxophonist from down under, and The Motion Epic is a producer and vocalist from Montreal. They have partnered up on an incredible album, and there's a QRates drive to get it pressed.

Visit <https://qrates.com/projects/22986-cruise-control> and help Neon Fawkes get his vinyl!

Here's a wicked track from the album. This is Max Cruise - Dangerous Love (feat. The Motion Epic). Wait for the sax in this. It'll give you shivers. Have a great night everyone!
